Accessibility 1

ACROD parking permits should be clearly displayed on the passenger side of the dashboard. This will establish eligibility for the use of easy access bays and any parking concessions provided by the City of Joondalup for disabled persons. 2

The Office of National Disability Services, Western Australia, distributes ACROD Parking Permits.

Time restricted areas

In a time restricted area, (for example: one or two hours), a vehicle displaying a valid ACROD permit can park for double the time allowance.

Paid ticket parking - no time restriction

In a paid parking area where no time restriction applies, a vehicle that displays a valid ACROD parking permit, can park for double the amount of time purchased and displayed on a valid parking ticket.

Paid ticket parking - time restriction

In a paid parking area where a time restriction applies, a vehicle displaying a valid ACROD permit can park for double the amount of time purchased and displayed on a valid parking ticket, but is limited to a maximum of double the time allowed by the time restriction. For example: 1/2 hour x 2 = one (1) hour maximum stay. Where a ticket is purchased for a lesser time than the time restriction, the City will allow double the amount of time purchased provided a ticket is properly displayed.

General parking

If an easy access bay is not available and a standard parking bay has to be used, the parking concessions outlined in this policy apply provided a valid ACROD permit is properly displayed.

For further information or enquiries please contact the City on 9400 4040.

1 Text aligned under image

Click to add image:

Have image just with border: `img.tealborder`

With option 1 the text will not wrap around the image. As shown in the example you have the option to have the image sit in the center of the content area.

2 Text aligned right of image

Click to add image:

Have image with border sit left: `img.tealborderleft`

3 Text aligned left of image

Click to add image:

Have image with border sit right: `img.tealborderright`

Design Note:

What Format?

Save photographs as jpeg format as these will be of higher colour quality than other formats.

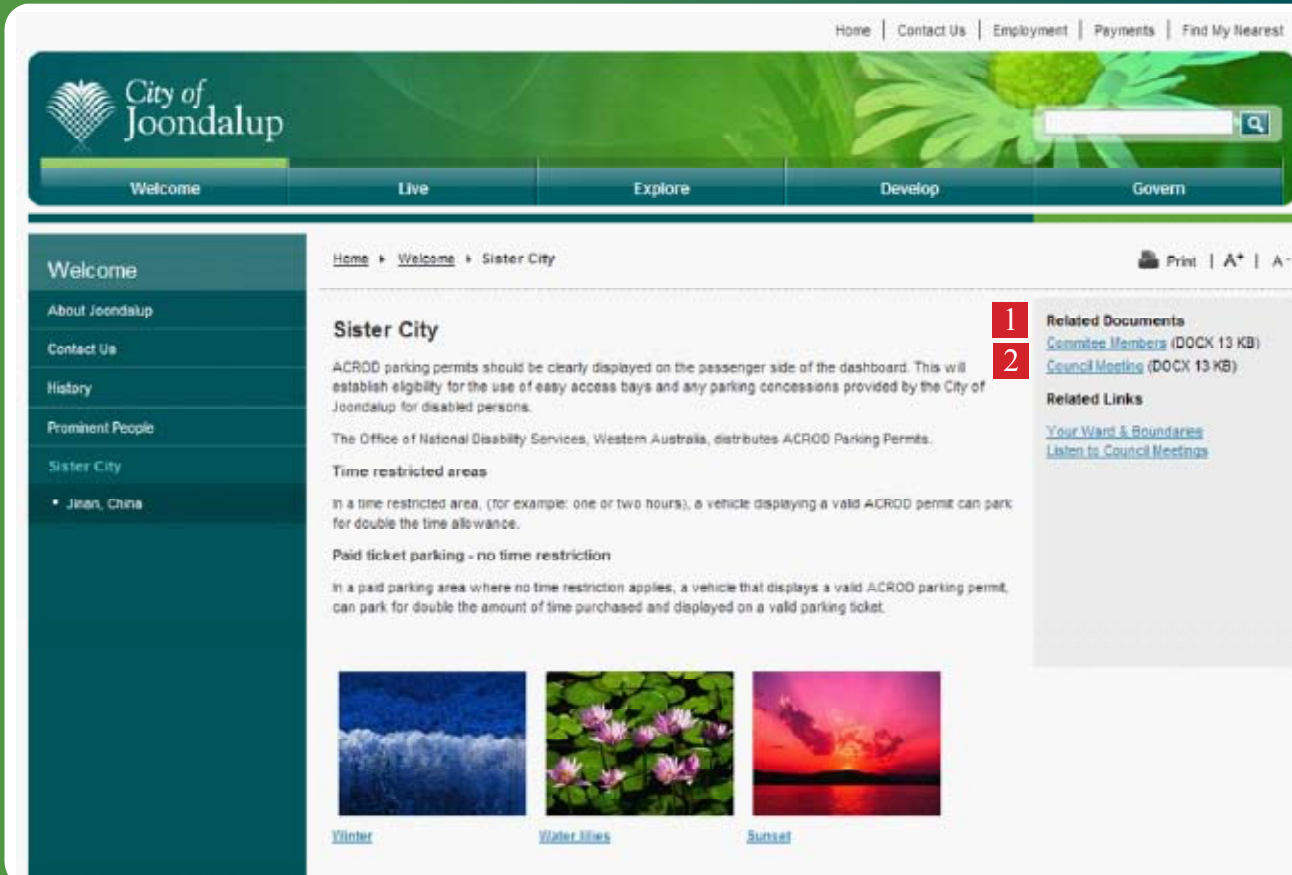

For diagrams, charts etc that only use a small selection of colours, use the gif or jpeg format.

What quality?

Images for the web only need to be 72dpi (dots per inch). Most printed material requires images to be of at least 300dpi, while you can upload images of 300dpi to the web the end user will not be able to notice any difference in quality.

It is easy to adjust the dpi in your photo-editing software.
