HEATH, David

I am a family man first and foremost and am married with two daughters and a granddaughter.

I spent many years in corporate life in South Africa and Australia. Five years ago I decided to change paths and began working for The Smith Family, a not-for-profit organisation that assists disadvantaged young Australians make the most out of their education.

I believe in participation and encourage volunteering as a means of giving back to community.

I support living in a healthy and safe community and believe that the safety of our families and friends should be top of all agendas along with excellent and accessible education.

I would promote the sensible use of ratepayers money and be open to listen to individuals and the community in this regard.

I believe in accountability, responsibility and openness in a local government and that the community should be able to participate.
