BLAKE, Janine

I have dedicated my career to improving the lives of those around me through social mobility initiatives predominantly in the workforce development, careers and training space. I am passionate about breaking down barriers and creating opportunities, with a penchant for stakeholder engagement. A highlight was as a national manager, developing and implementing career learning programs for young people experiencing disadvantage across regional Australia.

I have aspired to be a Councillor since I worked in local government - over 10 years ago! It was a great experience of Councillors contributing to public service.

I care about people, I am action orientated and my passion is second to none and hey, Benjamin Franklin once said that "if you want something done, ask a busy person." - ask me!
